
Community organisations and young people can now apply for grants of up to $2,000 to help celebrate next year’s National Youth Week, held from 13 - 22 April 2012.

National Youth Week 2012 grants have been made available through the partnership between the Victorian Government, Federal Government and Youthbeyondblue.

National Youth Week 2012 grants are available to assist groups of young people to organise events for other young people. Applicants can apply for one of two types of grants:

- up to $2000 for young people working with an organisation to deliver a local community-based event, or
- up to $2000 for young people working with an organisation to deliver an event that raises awareness of depression and anxiety (supported by Youthbeyondblue).

The objectives of the National Youth Week 2012 program are to:

- support young people’s participation in the planning and delivery of all National Youth Week activities
- promote positive images of young people by showcasing their talents, achievements and contributions to the community
- assist young people to express their ideas and provide opportunities to have their voices heard within the community
- raise awareness of depression and anxiety (if applying for a Youthbeyondblue supported grant).

Applications for National Youth Week 2012 grants will close on 9 December 2011.
